ONE OF THE LARGEST GYPSY CAMPS EVER HELD IS LOCATED AT WAGRAM

Advocate Reporter Visits Camp Chase, Temporary Home of the Wanderers and Is Cordially Received

KING AND QUEEN PRESIDE OVER TRIBE OF NOMADS

A Two Weeks Meeting Will Be Held at Which Important Conferences are to Occur to Decide Number of Momentous Questions—Tribes May Settle Down on Reservation in Oklahoma—Tribesmen Present From All Over the Country.

"Ta-ta, ta-ta, yay, yay, yay, yay."

Wee hands clapped a steady beat to the monotonous drone broken only by an occasional hilarious flight of wild tune, wee forms in gaudy colors marked time and little bodies swayed, while a five year old tot in the center of the group jolted and wheeled on dinky little bare feet, twisting her body in wild abandon in the native dance which she executed in the custom it had been wont of her race to follow for ages past.

Looking on in rapt admiration stood two mature women with half-clad babes in their arms. Occasionally a smile of approval urged the little dancer on to her best efforts, until finally, half exhausted and out of breath, the tot rolled over in the soft grass while another took her place.

Squatted in tents at a distance were little groups of dark-skinned unkempt men, most of them with long shaggy locks, and nearly all smoking pipes. From the different groups came smatterings of Brazilian, Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, and now and then a bit of "deviled English."

The scene was in Camp Chase, the national convention of Brazilian gypsies, out between Etna and Wagram, on the Ohio Electric line, some miles from Newark, yet within jurisdiction of Licking county justice. There an Advocate reporter found presiding over a crowd of more than 200 gypsies from places as far distant as Transvaal, Africa, King John Williams in the midst of an informal, jolly council of his nomadic subjects gathered together for no more serious purpose than to say how'd'ya do and have a "good time."

Masonic emblems glitter from the gaily colored tents, for King John is a Knight Templar, a Knight of Pythias, an Odd Fellow and a Moose. The gypsies are arriving in great numbers and they say there will be over 300 there by Thursday or Friday, and they will remain for two weeks in their convention camp on ground rented from a farmer.

Neighbors of the camp have taken a liking to the gypsy bands, for while their professional begging and fortune telling might become a nuisance, they say the strangers buy their supplies from the farmers and country stores and pay cash without a word of discontent.

In the shape of huge letter "L" the thirty odd tents are strung in the encampment, setting off the green of the wooded background with a variety of the brightest colors. Wagons, gaily bedecked with blankets, cushions, flags and streamers, backed against the family tents numbering over a score and as gaudy in color as the wagons themselves, house the wandering bands.

They have come from Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Florida, Mexico, from up around Chicago and from parts of Ohio. They have just gathered to talk and have fun, although it was hinted that they were considering the purchase of government land in Oklahoma, where some of the Indian forefathers of tribesmen had holdings. It is said many of the campers have Osage and Cherokee Indian blood in their veins and to the onlooker it is not doubted, for the council of gypsy women resembles nothing so much as the camp of native Indians.

The women are of the dark-skinned extraction of the earlier Americans, and with their garb of loosely wrapped, gaily-colored apparel their shining black hair in tight braids down their backs or parted over the shoulders, they trudge about their duties, with banging, cheap jewelry jingling. The women do most of the camp work and take turn touring the neighborhood of the camp telling fortunes, while the men, horse dealers and coppermiths by trade, care for the horses. Their turn at work comes when they resume the road life, after breaking camp. Then the different families will go in various directions, some to California, some to New York and others to other parts of the United States.

ONE KILLED IN WRECK ON W. & L. E. ROAD

(Associated Press Telegram)

Canton, O., May 21.—In the wreck on the Wheeling and Lake Erie rail road last night one man was killed and several others injured. Mail Clerk Baker of Kenton, Ohio, was the only person to lose his life. Up until 9 o'clock this morning no word had been received from the relatives of Baker. His body remains in a Canton mortuary.

The most seriously injured, Engineer Clements of Cleveland, who has cuts about the head, Express Messenger Green Wood of Cleveland, cut and internally hurt and Austin Saunders, Canton, who has a broken leg, are reported doing well in Canton hospitals.

Responsibility for the head-on collision of passenger trains last night has not yet been fixed. Both engines and three baggage cars were smashed.

Definite Plans Under Way for Nation-Wide Prohibition Campaign

(Associated Press Telegram)

Columbus, Ohio, May 21.—Definite plans for a nation-wide prohibition campaign were developed by officers of the American Anti-Saloon League today from their headquarters at Westerville, Ohio, a suburb of this city. The complete plan will be outlined in an editorial which will be published in next week's American issue, the official publication of the league.

Briefly, as outlined in the editorial statement, the first move will be to secure the adoption by congress of the prohibition constitutional amendment recently introduced by Congressman Richmond Pearson Hobson. Although the passage of the resolution will require a two-thirds vote of both houses, the anti-saloon league officials believe it will

Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce Trade Boomers Arrive in Newark On Special Train for Annual Visit

Ninety-three busy, bustling Pittsburgers invaded Newark Wednesday morning and busied themselves with calling upon local merchants to extol the virtues of Pittsburg town as a wholesaling center.

It was the thirteenth annual trade extension tour conducted under auspices of the Pittsburg chamber of commerce. The party came over from Coshocton on the special all steel Pennsylvania train, arriving here at 7:30 and departing two hours later for Triway to continue on their tour of twenty cities in four days.

Although there were ninety-three in the party on the thirteenth annual tour, traveling in nine cars and arriving here on the twenty-first day of the month, the Pittsburg crowd seemed not awed by odd numbers.

Forty good Newark boosters were lined up on the Pennsylvania station platform to greet the visitors when their train came in. The Newark delegation represented the majority of the general reception committee from the Newark board of trade, with President F. C. Evans and Secretary W. C. Wells.

The visitors, as many as chose, were hustled into a dozen automobiles and taken for a spin over the town, giving a passing visit to the leading industries of which Newark is proud, and incidentally to let the Pittsburg men know that the so-called Smoky City hasn't a corner on the manufacturing business.

Members of the visiting chamber of commerce expressed great satisfaction with Newark's appearance and several who accompanied last year's tour noted improvements here and expressed the wish that they might remain here over night.

The special train furnished by the Pennsylvania company was an attraction in itself. There were four steel Pullman combination sleepers, two steel diners and a baggage car. The train was equipped throughout with electric lighting apparatus and a complete telephone system by which communication might be carried.

RUSHING WORK ON UNDERWOOD TARIFF BILL

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, D. C., May 21.—Democratic members of the senate finance committee decided today to hear no more manufacturers on the schedules of the Underwood bill after next Tuesday and then begin actual work of revising the bill.

Chairman Simmons added that no individual member of the committee could spare any further time listening to manufacturers and that all who wished to be heard must apply to the various sub-committees. After next Tuesday the committee expects to complete the bill in four days, or in time to report to the full committee, the following Monday. Then the Democratic caucuses will be called.

Boy Aged 12 Falls Under A Large Field Roller and Sustains Serious Injuries

(Associated Press Telegram)

When a team of horses he was driving to a large roller became frightened and ran away, Frank Shipp, aged 12, was thrown under the roller and received injuries which may prove fatal.

The child resides with his parents on a farm about four miles north of Newark, just off the Mt. Vernon road. On Wednesday morning about 10 o'clock he started to drive the roller through the gate into a field near the house when the roller caught and the horse became frightened. The tongue of the roller broke and the child was thrown to the ground. It is not known whether he was trampled by the horses or caught under the roller, for no one witnessed the accident, but his cries brought help and he was found to be seriously mangled.

Dr. P. H. Cosner was called making a hurried trip, and the child was brought to the Newark sanitarium in Razler & Bradley's ambulance. Here the examination showed that the left leg was broken and that one arm had been torn in such a manner that underneath the arm near the socket all the ligaments and muscles had been crushed and broken off. While it is doubtful, every effort will be made to save the arm. Two bad gashes were also cut in the head.

While suffering greatly from shock the child rallied nicely and his condition is announced as being very satisfactory to his attendants.

Dr. Cosner was assisted by Drs. Smith and Postle.

PRESBYTERIAN PENTECOST AT ATLANTA, GA.

(Associated Press Telegram)

Atlanta, Ga., May 21.—Interest among delegates to the Pan-Presbyterian first centennial today about the session of the Southern assembly where the debate bearing upon the alleged political activities of the federal council of churches of Christ in America was resumed.

There are many things relating to the federal council which the Southern assembly does not approve, withdrawal would be unwise.

S. S. CONVENTION TO BEGIN THURSDAY.

Those having in charge the arrangements for the County Sunday School Convention request that delegates bring their red hymn book, the book used in the Lyon meetings. An orchestra of twenty pieces will furnish music on both Thursday and Friday evenings. The ladies of the First M. E. church will serve dinner and supper on Friday in the basement of the church. A request is made that all those who are willing to furnish lodging and breakfast for delegates, remain at the close of the Thursday evening session to assist in directing delegates to their homes. On Saturday afternoon there will be two meetings of great importance both from 2 to 3 o'clock at the Fifth Baptist church. A girl's meeting led by Miss Edna Earle Cole of Barnesville, O., and a boy's meeting to be addressed by M. G. Bailey of Columbus, O. All boys and girls, ages 8 to 14, should not fail to be present at these meetings.

INJURED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT AT CLEVELAND

(Associated Press Telegram)

Cleveland, May 21.—An automobile containing Michael Mullaney, William Smith and John A. Ray, was ditched when its steering gear was jammed at East Fifth street near Woodland avenue early today. The occupants were thrown out and badly injured. Mullaney's head struck a street car rail and physicians say he will die.

O'HARA EXONERATED BY THE COMMISSION

(Associated Press Telegram)

Springfield, Ill., May 21.—Lieutenant Governor O'Hara was exonerated from blame and Miss Maud Robinson and Sam Davis of Springfield were charged with attempting to obstruct the work of the senate white slave commission by the report of the special senatorial commission appointed to investigate charges of immorality against O'Hara which today reported its finding to the senate.

YOUNG BANKER IS STILL ALIVE AND CHEERFUL

(Associated Press Telegram)

Macon, Ga., May 21.—"If this be dying, then none need fear its terrors." B. Sanders Walker, the young banker who swallowed a bichloride of mercury tablet by mistake a week ago, made this characteristically cheerful statement today, as he begged his nurse to tell him exactly what had been said at a conference of physicians in a corner of his bed chamber.

Although warned from the first that death undoubtedly awaited him, Walker consistently maintained buoyant spirits. He rallied again today and was the least perturbed of any in his room.

Conscious and suffering little or no discomfort, Walker has been unable to grasp the situation which physicians say confronts him. The slow work of the deadly poison has failed to shake Walker's belief that he will recover. His high spirits, it is believed, have had much to do with resisting the inroads of the drug.

Today Walker begged his physicians to allow him to talk with his family and friends. He said he had no fear of ill consequences. To his wife struggling bravely to bear up, Walker constantly offers words of encouragement.

"If I am dying," he said, "then the sensation is not as unpleasant as it is generally pictured."

STILL SEEKING SLAYER OF THE LITTLE GIRL

(Associated Press Telegram)

Pittsburg, Pa., May 21.—The murder of Grace Johnston, aged 14, at Blackburn, in Westmoreland county, on Monday, has aroused the citizens of that section of Pennsylvania and last night and early today detectives from Allegheny county, members of the state constabulary and officers from adjoining counties conducted a search for the slayer.

Two suspects, foreigners, were captured by state constables at midnight. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the murderer and posters giving the description of a strange man seen near the place of the crime have been mailed to all cities in the state.

Grace Johnston left her home to attend school Monday morning. When she did not return late in the afternoon of that day a search was made, her body being found in a clump of woods near a railroad track. Upon examination it was ascertained that she had been attacked, her death resulting from strangulation. Bloodhounds were put on the scene, but lost the trail in the business section of Greensburg, the county seat of Westmoreland county.

DYNAMITE "PLANTING" TESTIMONY

Given by Witness Who Has Turned State's Evidence

COURTROOM IS PACKED

By Curious Who Anticipated Sensational Testimony—Tells of Receiving $500 for His Part in Conspiracy.

(Associated Press Telegram)

Boston, May 21.—Frederick E. Atteaux, a dye manufacturer and a co-defendant with President Wood of the American Woolen company, in the dynamite conspiracy trial, hired John J. Breen, a Lawrence undertaker, to "plant" explosives in buildings occupied by the striking textile operatives according to Breen, who testified for the state today.

Atteaux, the witness said, gave him $500 before the dynamite was placed and made a second payment of $200 some time later.

Ernest Pittman of Andover, a builder contractor, who committed suicide when the grand jury began its investigation was named by Breen as the person who delivered the dynamite to Breen and Dennis Collins, the third defendant who yesterday turned state's evidence.

On cross-examination, the witness said he never had conspired with Wood, Atteaux or Pittman to injure any person or property. Breen said that he held a conversation with Atteaux after the dynamite had been placed. I asked him, said the witness, "If Mr. Wood knew anything about the matter, and he said he didn't."

(Associated Press Telegram)

Boston, May 21.—In an endeavor to connect President William M. Wood, of the American Woolen company, and Frederick E. Atteaux, with the aged conspiracy to discredit striking textile workers at Lawrence by "planting" dynamite in buildings occupied by strikers in that city in January, 1912, the prosecution called John J. Breen, a Lawrence undertaker to the witness stand today.

Breen, who was a member of the Lawrence school committee when the dynamite was found, was fined $500 in the Essex county court several months ago upon conviction of unlawfully hiding the explosives.

Testimony that Breen had paid him $500 "planting" the dynamite was given yesterday by Dennis J. Collins, a co-defendant with Wood and Atteaux, who turned state's evidence. His testimony did not connect either Wood or Atteaux with the alleged conspiracy.

Anticipating that Breen might give sensational testimony, a great crowd tried to get admission to the courtroom today, but the attendance was limited strictly to witnesses, attorneys and a few holders of passes issued by the district attorney or the sheriff.

The first testimony connecting either of the defendants with the dynamite, was given by John J. Breen, when he took the stand this morning. He testified bluntly that Atteaux had asked him if he could obtain some dynamite.

Walter Wedgett, an expert of explosives and former manufacturer of fire works, testified regarding the dynamite found at Lawrence. He went to that city on January 27, 1912, to examine some dynamite for the state police. From a bag the witness produced

The Personality of Newark

(By Chalmers L. Hancock)

When the bustling spirit prevails in a town, it becomes the personality of that town, and a town's personality forms the best possible advertisement to attract new people and new business.

Newark's personality is recognized in everything it does or attempts to do. The character of Newark is a reflection of the character of its citizens.

An advertisement of a town's advantages and opportunities is the modern way of acquainting the world with a town's character. If the advertisement is honest and truthful, other communities believe and new citizens are found.

Advertising also protects a town. It is known that an advertising city has a story worth telling that it is not ashamed to reveal itself to the world. By advertising it maintains its reputation against outside knockers.

Advertising cities are growing cities. Business and men of the right kind gravitate to aggressive and alert communities. Not only that but the best kind of young men—those who possess the courage of the business pioneer—are the ones who naturally seek such a place. Live men naturally find their way to live cities. In this fact, intangible as the force may seem, lies the real value of city advertising.

Friends Loyal and True Says Sutley Who Obtains Permission to Leave State

Quincy Sutley returned Tuesday evening from Mansfield hearing with him a letter from the superintendent of the reformatory granting him permission to leave the state.

Mr. Sutley regrets that a mis-statement was made in Monday evening's issue regarding the loyalty of his friends who have stood by him from the inception of his trouble. "I can't say too much for their fidelity in my hour of trouble," said Sutley. "They have stood by me from start to finish, and I certainly would be grateful if I did not appreciate their kindly efforts in my behalf. No matter where I will be or in what vocation of life I may be found I will always remember their steadfast allegiance and hope some day to repay their many kindnesses."

Sutley obtained permission to leave Ohio from the reformatory officials based on the record he made while an inmate of that institution. He obeyed all the rules and his deportment was excellent. He is yet a young man and while his health has not been any too good he hopes by a change of climate and surroundings to improve it. He has secured a good position and will leave Saturday to accept it.

A Severe Sickness Leaves The Kidneys Weak

After recovering from a severe spell of sickness some time ago, I was all run down and suffering from poor blood. I would have pains in my back and hips and my kidneys bothered me all the time. ## Newark High Vs. Doane Friday Afternoon

The local High team will meet the Doane Academy team for the second time on Friday afternoon and as the locals are in good trim, no reason is known why they cannot win a victory over their previous scalp receivers. The Doane bunch defeated the High team in their first game of the season by a score of 7 to 6. Let's get out and help them win.

Anderson Finishes Mandot in Twelfth

Los Angeles, Cal., May 21.—Joe Mandot of New Orleans was knocked out in the twelfth round of his scheduled 20-round fight here last night with "Red" Anderson of Vancouver, Wash. Mandot was not knocked down in the final round, but he was "out" on his feet. He was clearly insensible. Referee Epton, seeing the condition of the Southerner, stopped the fight, with Mandot staggering blindingly about the ring and held up Anderson's hand in token of victory.

Callahan has plucked a star pitcher from the minors in Russell, his young southpaw, who has performed well on the several occasions that he has occupied the box. This twirler comes to the White Sox from Ft. Worth, in the Texas league.

Another good pitcher that the Chicago manager let slip through his fingers is George Johnson, the Indian pitcher, who went to Cincinnati at the waiver price. He has proved to be the Reds' winning pitcher. Callahan let him go because his style of pitching was similar to Lange and Benz, two of his experienced pitchers.

Collegian Runs Two Mile Race With Broken Ankle

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 21.—Raymond Haimbaugh, the University of Michigan's track two-miler, who won first place from Syracuse runners in last Saturday's track meet, ran the race with a broken ankle. This was disclosed yesterday when an X-ray photograph was made of Haimbaugh's leg. It is believed the fracture occurred during the two-mile race at Cornell two weeks previously. In spite of the pain caused by the injury, Haimbaugh kept in training, and was able to outdistance his opponents in Saturday's race, at the finish of which he collapsed. Haimbaugh will not run again this year, and as he is a senior, his days as a college athlete are over.

INEXPERIENCE A HANDICAP TO JESS WILLARD

San Francisco, May 21.—Inexperience proved to be a big handicap to Jess Willard of Kansas in the heavy-weight fight with "Gumbo" Smith, which the latter won last night on a decision at the end of the 20th round. Willard had the strength and courage but he was too good natured and too sluggish, and when Smith forced him in the tight places he did not know what to do.

In the periods when he might have won the fight he seemed to lack the determination to push through for a victory. But when Smith was in difficulty he always displayed ring generalship and covered up until the gong saved him.

Of the twenty rounds fought, but six could be credited to Willard. In offense he showed exactly what the critics had predicted for him, a tantalizing straight left and a right uppercut. At infighting he was a novice.

Ringside critics expected the opinion that although Smith had won a just decision with training and experience Willard might be developed into a formidable heavyweight.

Grover Cleveland Alexander has started out this season in great style. At his present gait he should hang up a better record than his banner year 1911, when he was called "Alexander the Great." In that year he won 28 and lost 13, while last season he won 19 and lost 17 games.

It will take a real twirler to stick on the Philadelphia Nationals' staff this year with such a wealth of pitching material as Alexander, Moore, Seaton, Brennan, Chalmers, Rixer and young Moyer. This bunch of pitchers should keep Dooin's club in the fight all the way, unless injuries, their usual jinx, put the stars out of the game.

The Columbus Heating and Ventilating company was awarded the contract Tuesday night by the board of education, for providing the heating equipment for the addition to the Indiana street school. With all appertinances, this company's bid was regarded as the lowest.

GOV. COX PAYS BUCKEYE PARK SHORT VISIT

Governor James M. Cox with Robert Wolfe and other Columbus people composed a party of visitors to Buckeye Lake Park Tuesday night and according to reports from the lake, the governor enjoyed himself hugely. He looked in on all the concessions at the park, threw balls at the babies, tossed the rings at the cane racks, took a crack at the white targets at the shooting gallery and otherwise showed that he was democratic in spirit as well as in politics.

He watched the dancers on the floor of the big pavilion for some time, and upon leaving expressed himself as being well pleased with this popular Central Ohio watering place.

Few people in the crowd knew that the governor was there, though before he left it was noted about that the governor had honored the park with his presence.

The members of the party were guests at the Wolfe cottage.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their Total, $129,442.

DYNAMITE

duced several sticks which he said resembled the dynamite he inspected. He explained that the sample did not contain dynamite and said that he had no explosives in the bar.

He also produced imitations of detonators he said were very explosive.

The witness told of the various ways in which dynamite might be exploded by accident. Dynamite that was thoroughly frozen he said was hard to discharge, but partially frozen dynamite was apt to be discharged unexpectedly, and was more dangerous than any other form of the explosive.

It was very dangerous to have dynamite and detonators near each other, and it would be extremely hazardous for a person inexperienced in explosives to carry a package containing both dynamite and detonators. He described the methods by which he identified the Lawrence exhibits as dynamite and detonators. As part of the tests he and state officer Flynn, exploded three of the dynamite sticks at a cemetery in Lawrence. One of the blasting caps used to explode the dynamite had been given him by a Lawrence police official who told him it had been found in a package of dynamite that had been planted.

Wedgett said that the temperature of an ordinary railway passenger car in winter would thaw out frozen dynamite in three quarters of an hour.

Breen described and said that he knew both Collins and Atteaux. In January, 1912, the month of the textile strike, he met Atteaux at the latter's office in response to a telephone request. This was a few days before the dynamite episode.

"Atteaux said he was glad to see I was interested in keeping the striking element quiet," said Breen.

"The next time I saw him was on January 19. I went to report the condition of things to him. The conversation was about the strike condition. I said: 'If I was fighting those fellows I'd fight them by their own methods.' 'What do you mean,' he said, 'dynamite?' 'Dynamite or anything else,' I said.

"Could you get some dynamite?" said he. I said 'no.' Then he suggested that perhaps Mr. Pittman might get some."

The Pittman mentioned by the witness was Ernest R. Pittman with whom the state alleges Wood, Atteaux and Collins conspired. Pittman committed suicide on the day he was subpoenaed to appear as a witness before the grand jury which was investigating the alleged dynamite plot.

Atteaux telephoned to Pittman. Breen continued, and "an hour later Pittman arrived at Atteaux's office."

"Atteaux came in after Pittman left and said to me 'well, you can't do this for nothing.' I said, 'no, I will have to hire some one to help me.' 'How much do you need,' he asked, 'will $500 be enough?' I told him that would be enough. Atteaux then asked me about the police and I told him that Inspector Rooney was a friend of mine and would never suspect me when I gave him the tip about the dynamite. Atteaux said he had no money with him but would give it to me at 5 o'clock."

Breen told of meeting Collins and

Stomach Trouble Caused a Gnawing
Sensation With Bloating and Palpitation of the Heart.

"I feel entirely well, am doing my own work with ease and do not know I have a stomach or heart," says Mrs. Myrtle Heiser of 24 Crane street, Dayton, Ohio, after having treated a short time with the United Doctors. (who have their Newark institute on the second floor of the Arcade building) for a severe case of stomach trouble which has given her misery for many years.

What more could be said in praise of any system of medicine than that it has given results that make the benefitted patient wish to tell his or her experience to all friends or sufferers.

"For two years or more I have suffered with stomach trouble, have had a gnawing sensation, constant bloating and palpitation of the heart. The least exertion would almost cause me to collapse. For this reason I could barely walk up a flight of stairs. Headache and constipation were added to my troubles and there was little of pleasure in life for me."

"It is for the reason that I have obtained a complete recovery that I make this statement, as I know there are many other stomach sufferers to whom this method of treatment will bring renewed health. The United Doctors treat, among other ailments, chronic and deep-seated diseases of the nerves, blood, heart, liver, kidneys, bladder, skin, spine, including rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, epilepsy, gout, gall stones, asthma, rectal troubles, indigestion, constipation, rupture, chronic appendicitis, and other diseases of women and diseases of men."

STATEMENT REGARDING TAX COMMISSIONER

In view of the reports in certain morning papers regarding an alleged factional contention between Newark politicians over the coming appointment of Tax Commissioner of Licking County Mr. C. W. Miller called at the Advocate office today and requested the paper to state that he had made no application for the position. Mr. Miller stated that while friends had discussed the subject with him he had not made application for appointment to the position and would not be a party to any factional contention in regard to it, and further that he would give the aid and support of a loyal Democrat to make the administration of the appointee a complete success in order to promote in the highest degree the popular approval of the administration of Governor Cox.

The suppression of the opium traffic seems to be making great progress in China. Soldiers are destroying poppy fields, and sixty-seven farmers who had resisted are said by a Shanghai dispatch to have been burned by the soldiers who set fire to the house in which they were holding a meeting. If the attention of other recalcitrant farmers is called to this manifestation of the dangers incident to poppy culture the substitution of some other crop should be a certainty.

The New York Sun's analysis of the effect of the pending tariff bill upon prices indicates that the consumer and his wife and children will benefit substantially by the new duties. This conclusion is the more significant because the Sun's sympathies are on the side of the protectionists, and it has been prone to make game of the tariff reformers and their solicitude for the consumers.

President Wilson, will find, as his predecessors have found, that the Senate not only does, but is, deliberate and may filibuster to delay a vote on the tariff bill.

Japan should avoid mass-meetings and leave the land controversy to its Foreign Office.

If the Japanese will stop talking about war we can probably talk business with them.

Put the tariff bill through, the Democratic party is going to be responsible for it.

Uncle Walt's Philosophy

THE SANE SYSTEM

The man who early goes to bed, instead of painting landscapes red assisted by a demijohn, until the roosters hail the dawn, will rise refreshed at break of day, and sing a joyous roundelay. His mouth is clean, his eyes are bright, he has a horse's appetite and to his maw he gaily rakes a half a quire of buckwheat cakes, and ham and eggs and bread and cheese, and sundry other things like these. Then to his daily toil he goes, all full of vim, from crown to toes. He works so well his boss observes: "I'm surely mashed upon your curves, and so, beginning with today, I'll add a guilder to your pay." The man who paints the village red instead of going to his bed at seven minutes after ten, on waking thinks a setting hen has used his mouth three weeks or more; his eyes are red, his stomach sore; he cannot eat the wholesome steak, scrambled egg or buckwheat cake, but sadly chews a pickled bean and takes a drink of kerosene. He does his task in languid way, and ere he's put in half a day, the boss exclaims: "You make me tired! Put on your hat and go—you're fired!" If you would hold a good job down, be wise—let others paint the town.

Wisdom from Washington

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, May 21.—[Special.]—The Democratic party is receiving a lot of advice these days. Not only President Wilson, members of his cabinet, senators and representatives, individually, but the party, collectively, is being told what to do in letters, circulars and speeches. Notably has this been done in speeches in the house and up to the present time in speeches in the senate. And what is also a fact more advice in speeches in the senate may be expected before the tariff bill passes.

With the utmost concern those elder statesmen on the Republican side and some who have only been in the senate a short time, advise the Democrats as to procedure and as to what final action should be if the party desires to retain the good will of the people.

Promise More Advice.

Now, the Republicans are not going to filibuster on the tariff—they have so asserted—but they are going to discuss each paragraph and tell what will happen to the Democrats if they do not restore the Payne rates or at least make the reduction much less than in the Underwood bill.

If the Democrats were going straight along to destruction it would seem to be party wisdom by the Republicans to let them do so, but that is not politics—not the way politics is played in Washington.

Long Session Predicted.

Even without hearings on the tariff bill in committee there is a prospect for a long session of the senate. I hear men talk about September and October as months which may come and go before the session ends. If the Republican determination to debate every item at length is carried out the guesses may be right.

The Democrats have not a majority which can force things. If free sugar and free wool are held in the bill the margin is very narrow. And a narrow margin cannot force long sessions and maintain a quorum all the time.

New Senators Restive.

New senators are restive under the possible protracted debates. They are looking for methods to maintain a quorum and to count quorums of senators who announce pairs and do not vote. That is an idea of John Sharp Williams, whose house experience has convinced him that when a man is present and his name is recorded as present for the purpose of announcing his pair he ought to figure in a quorum. There will be talk of changing the rules, but the senate will move very slowly in that direction.

Other Legislation.

While it seems certain that there will be a move in the direction of currency legislation, it is the intention of the leaders to prevent any other matters of importance coming up. In the senate, however, the committees are reporting bills from time to time, many important measures, and no doubt efforts will be made to have them considered.

Again, no one controls the senate, while the house—direct from the people—is controlled by a very few men. Three or four men in the house can decide what shall be considered and can shut out what they do not want brought forward.

Object to Seven Years.

Chairman Hay of the military committee says there will be no legislation looking toward short term enlistments at this session to meet the complaint that the army cannot recruit a sufficient number of men to meet the requirements of the service.

"I would be in favor of cutting off the provision for a three year service as reserves," he said. "That is what prevents enlistments. The term is now for four years with the colors and three years as reserves. Men object to trying themselves up for seven years although they might enlist for four years. That is the navy and marine corps period."

How He Felt.

A few days after the tariff bill had passed the house Chairman Underwood remarked that he felt like a boy who had been in a long fight and had been beaten up a great deal.

"I am tired and sore with the long contest," he said, "and would not want to go through another." The house was in session from 11 o'clock in the morning till 11 o'clock each night and Underwood was on the job most of the time.

"Picking at Items."

Champ Clark did not think very much of the tariff debate in the house. "It was mostly picking at items," said the speaker, "not really such tariff arguments as we had four years ago." It should also be remembered that there was less opportunity to amend the bill on account of the large Democratic majority.

First Things

The first national convention of the Democratic party met in Baltimore eight-one years ago today. This was the first national convention ever held in the United States by a major party, although the Anti-Masonic party had held such a meeting in Baltimore some eight months before. The Democratic delegates ratified the nomination of Jackson for the presidency, already made by State legislatures, and formally nominated Van Buren for the vice-presidency. The convention adopted no platform, but expressed confidence in Jackson and his policies. The first definite party platform was formulated at a national convention of National Republicans, or Whigs, held in Washington the same month. The first national Democratic convention to nominate a presidential candidate was held in Baltimore in May, 1835, when Van Buren was chosen as the standard bearer. Both the 1832 and 1835 conventions were largely composed of federal officeholders.

A fierce storm came up Sunday night and broke six anchors with which the pile driver and barge were made fast. They were driven 18 miles along the shore, where they struck on the beach.

Children have often been likened to flowers. There is something beautiful about childhood as such; something wonderful about the plainest flower.

But unlike the flower, the children's clothing does not grow with them.

At this change of season every mother is anxiously going over her children's wardrobe. Hats, coats, dresses, underwear, stockings, and shoes, any or all may be needed.

The wise woman "takes stock" early in the season and keeps her eye out for opportunities to fill up the deficiencies. The wisest woman makes her task easy by following the advertisements of THE ADVOCATE. She will find in them countless suggestions to aid her decisions, and corresponding opportunities to exercise her choice.

Daddy's Bedtime
Story—When Ruthie
Polished
Her Shoes.

The Blacking Would Not Come Off.

SOMETIMES Jack was not very particular about keeping his shoes shined.

"It isn't nice to wear muddy shoes in the house," daddy said soberly.

"Yea, he had on the most horrid shoes at school yesterday," said Evelyn, "and I saw the principal looking at them. She stands at the head of the stairs, you know, as we march into the hall from outdoors."

"I trust, Master Jack," said daddy, "that after this you will go to school with neat looking shoes, so that the teacher will not need to look at them reprovingly."

"You are not nearly so particular as our little friend Ruthie. She is very careful to keep herself looking nice. Her hair is always neatly tied with a bright ribbon, her little frock clean and fresh and her shoes and stockings all they should be."

"There are different ways of shining shoes, you know, but the way Ruthie's mamma does it is to polish them with some black stuff out of a bottle."

"Ruthie has often watched her mother brightening the shoes by dipping the sponge, which is fixed to a wire, one end of which is fastened in the stopper of the bottle."

"When Ruthie asked to be allowed to polish her own shoes her mother would always say, 'Wait till you are a little older.'"

"One morning Ruthie's mother was ill, and she had to get ready for school alone. Her sister Hannah buttoned her dress and combed her hair, tying the ribbon in place, but hardly sulking Ruthie."

"Then Ruthie looked at her shoes. She went into the bathroom, where the bottle of polish was kept, and took it down from the shelf. Then she began to blacken the shoes."

"It was not so easy as it looked. Ruthie got too much of the liquid on the sponge, and it ran all over the shoes and dripped off on to her dress."

"Just then Ruthie's papa came along. 'Whatever are you doing?' he asked."

"'Blacking my shoes,' Ruthie answered, with her funny little lip. 'The teacher is going to expect them today.'"

"Ruthie meant that the teacher would inspect the shoes. Her father was so much amused that he begged Ruthie's mamma not to scold her for soiling her frock."

"And when she went to school Ruthie had soiled hands, because, scrub as hard as she would, the stain of the blacking would not come off."

"And what do you think? The teacher did not inspect the shoes that day at all, but she did look very hard at Ruthie's black hand."

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Keep the Sink Clean.

Grease in the sink is a very prolific cause of disease. It cannot but accumulate from dishes and utensils, and when small bits of vegetable matter adhere to it a shelter is given to mischievous bacteria. Besides, grease will clog the drain and become a menace and an inconvenience. The surest and simplest cleansing agent is a strong solution of washing soda and boiling water. The sink should first be scrubbed with soap-suds and the hot solution then dashed down the drain. This cleansing should be done at least once a week.

MARTIN-TAYLOR.
The wedding of Mr. Omer Martin and Miss Alta Taylor was solemnized Monday evening at the parson of the Rev. Mr. Laughlin in East Newark. They were attended by Miss Anna Martin, sister of the groom and Mr. Frank Kiehl.

Miss Taylor is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Taylor of 142 South Fifth street. The groom is a prominent B. & O. boiler maker, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of 142 Jones street. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin, draped with crepe de chine, with cap to match, and carried a large bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was gowned in pale blue satin, with cap to match, and carried roses. A delicious supper was served at which only the immediate families were present.

A most unusual program attracted the largest audience ever assembled in the Trinity Parish House on Tuesday evening, when the young women of the Altar Guild gave an entertainment under the direction of Mrs. U. O. Stevens and Mrs. C. F. Sites.

The first part of the program was given over to living pictures posed by the young women. Preceding each picture was musical accompaniment. The selections were made by Mrs. U. O. Stevens and the girls were posed by her. The series of pictures were delightfully alluring. Some of the subjects were Guinevere, selections from Idylls of the King, Ophelia, Carmen, The Miller's Daughter, Evangeline, Maud Muller, Little Nell, Sally in Our Alley and presentation of the Colonial Dames.

The pictures were followed by a burlesque on "Lord Ellen's Daughter," which afforded a delightful bit of comedy. The accompanist during the evening was Miss Mary Neal.

The uniqueness of the program, together with its charming histrionic merit made the entertainment one of the most enjoyable of its kind to be given. Largely the success of the play was due to the work of Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Sites, the costuming and the selecting being entirely in their hands.

Protesting Against Monotony

SHE was a New England spinster. No other word except spinster applied. She was world away from a bachelor maid. She was not even an old maid, in the accepted sense of the term. For some one has said an old maid is an unmarried woman who is resigned. Whereas a spinster is an unmarried woman who is not resigned. And she was not resigned.

She objected loudly to her fate, and she did not mind letting people hear her objections.

In fact, she objected to the facts of her existence generally; and she voiced her objections by other means as well as by word of mouth. She was never cut out for a New England village life, and she showed her rebellion against what she considered such a drab existence.

Her first act of rebellion was to peroxide her hair. And the result was not the rather dead-looking, ashy tresses that usually result, but a red-gold, which had been natural would have been really beautiful. But it was plain to be seen it was nature-fake; and as she piled on, in addition, several pounds secured at the hair dresser's and several shades off, the result was not all that could be desired.

Then in order that her complexion might keep in step with her fiery aureole, she had recourse to the rouge pot and the powder jar; and roses bloomed on her cheeks, the like of which was never seen on land or sea.

And yet despite her startling appearance, she was a jolly, wholesome-souled woman, who wanted to get a little pleasure out of existence and thought this was a way to brighten things up a bit. She had lived all her life in this little New England village where things were monotonous and dull, and her whole nature rebelled at her drab existence. Her present appearance was her protest against this drabness. She could endure it no longer. She determined to look bright herself, even if her efforts could reach no farther.

It is rather pitiable isn't it, that a nature that craved brightness and joy could see no other way to gain it than by such a poor makeshift. For when she lays her false hair on the bureau, and washes off her paint and powder, she must realize with bitterness of spirit that after all life is still drab. She has only white-washed, or rather, peroxidized and powdered things a bit. And when the coating washes off, there is still the old gray tinge. She hasn't got at the core of the matter.

Had she rejuvenated her home, put new brightness into its furnishings, opened the windows to the sunlight, made gay her garden with flowers, and invited the neighbors in, once a week, to some sort of cheery gathering, wouldn't she more effectively have put to rout the pall of gray that hung over her life? She would really have brightened her spirits more in this way, than she did by trying to brighten her personal appearance. And the brightness would not have been the kind that would have to be laid on the bureau at night or taken out of the powder jar in the morning.

It is all right to protest against a drab existence, and to do what one can to brighten it. But will not the results be more to our satisfaction if we look the matter through, and find a remedy that goes to the heart of it, and not merely apply a surface palliative which leaves us at the last no better off than we were in the beginning?

Peroxide and powder may be protests against a colorless and joyless life; but let's go deeper than peroxide and powder for the cure.

Barbara Boyd.

EVANGELIST LYON BREAKS RECORD AT FAIRMONT

Dr. Milford H. Lyon, the evangelist who conducted a very successful campaign in Newark last year, has just concluded his work at Fairmont, W. Va., with remarkable results.

On the closing day of the series of meetings 200 people "hit the trail," making a total of 2,880. In the three collections taken on Sunday the sum of $9,000 was raised for Dr. Lyon. Heretofore the largest contribution ever taken by Dr. Lyon was a trifle over $5,000, but five thousand dollars were subscribed at Fairmont in fifteen minutes.

Three men gave $200 each while 15 men each gave $100. The Fairmont Times says the Lyon revival was the greatest ever held in West Virginia.

CONFESSES TO THE MURDER OF WEST VIRGINIAN

(Associated Press Telegram) Columbus, O., May 21.—"I killed Samuel E. Kelly, cutting him with his own knife and shooting him with his own revolver. I took from him $47. It happened at 10:30 on the night of June 7, but a short time after we got into Columbus from Huntington."

This confession was made to Sergeant of Detectives Dorgan and Detective Rourke today by Leslie Humphrey, who was brought back to Columbus from Gassaway, W. Va., on Tuesday. It followed a "third degree" administered after the police showed Humphrey Kelly's watch, taken from a sink in the rear of the house formerly occupied by Humphrey.

Mrs. Humphrey had told the police her husband said he threw a revolver into the sink, and the police had the place cleaned out in an effort to get the weapon. Instead they found Kelly's watch and identified it by numbers given them by the West Virginia jeweler from whom the watch was purchased.

The police got on the trail of Humphrey through the man's own son. The child picked up a bloody revolver he found about the premises and a neighbor saw it. He told Officer Ball, who reported to Sergeant Dorgan, and so the chain was established which ended with Humphrey's arrest in West Virginia.

(Associated Press Telegram) Columbus, O., May 21.—Leslie Humphrey, local switchman, confessed to police today that he murdered Samuel E. Kelly of Hinton, W. Va., on Fifth avenue near Joyce, on Wednesday night May 7, and robbed his body of $47, according to announcement made by officers who are "sweating" him.

On his alleged confession was made by Humphrey when he was confronted with Kelly's watch, found in the Bennett street residence, which he and his family occupied at the time of the murder.

The vault in the rear of the house on Bennett street near twentieth street, occupied by Humphrey and his family at the time of the murder was cleaned last night under direction of Sergeant Dorgan and Kelly's blood stained open face gold watch was recovered and is now held as evidence against Humphrey. The police are still searching the premises, believing that Kelly's missing revolver will be found hidden there.

Mr. Vernon May 21.—Petitions are being circulated here, asking for a local option election under the Rose law.

EXPRESS AGENT ARRESTED FOR SELLING LIQUOR

Mr. Vernon, May 21.—Charged with violation of the Rose law, F. A. Ahrendt, agent for the United States Express company was arrested here Monday by Chief of Police Clements.

Max Hyman, tobacco wholesaler and former saloonist was arrested on the same charge.

Mr. Ahrendt is the local agent for the U. S. Express company and ever since Mr. Vernon has been dry there have been frequent and large shipments of beer from Mansfield to Mr. Vernon through the express company.

It is understood that the methods employed for sending in the orders for the beer furnished the basis for the charge now preferred against Agent Ahrendt.

ONE OF THE LARGEST

(Continued from page 1.) States, traveling always by wagon and camping along the roadside. The women and children smoke pipes and cigarettes just like the men, and the tobacco consumption of Camp Chase is no small item of expense. The food supply is not a matter to be scorned either.

Tuesday for noon meal, the camp consumed five sheep and one roast pig together with vegetables all cooked on the camp fires built in front of each family settlement. Incidentally, the men of the camp secured the permission of King John to bring in something like nine kegs of beer Tuesday. One empty keg was in sight part of the time, Tuesday afternoon and the rest of the time it was hidden behind a conglomeration of red, yellow, green, purple, orange, black and white, which, on close observation, proved to be a gathering of a dozen youngsters of the tribe, anywhere from four to ten years of age, all trying to drain the keg of its dregs.

For amusement, baseball is a popular sport, and there is no more ardent devotee of the game than King John himself. Steve Miller is captain of the gypsy team and just by way of getting acquainted the gypsies defeated a team of country boys Sunday by a score of nine to seven. Another game was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, to start at 2:30 o'clock.

And the gypsies are not losers by this sort of attraction, for thousands of people have visited their camp. Sunday the road was lined with autos and other vehicles, and week days in the afternoon and evenings the roadway is filled with carriages. Camp visitors have proven liberal in their patronage of the fortune tellers, while their donations to the children amount to a big figure.

And by the way, the Brazilian gypsies are not given to race suicide. Children? There are children by the dozen, and it is one of the interesting features of a visit to the camp to observe the readiness with which mere infants grasp the instinctive customs of their parents. For instance, Tuesday afternoon a girl of six built a camp fire by grasping a live coal from a neighbor's blaze and bouncing it in her bare hand while she ran to her own fireplace and deposited it with a bit of paper and some dry sticks, from which a warm fire was soon burning. The act was primitive but reasonable.

The oldest gypsy of the convention honorary head of the tribe from point of years, is King George Williams, whose age is given as 112 years. But he is really an ex-king.

The real acting king is John Williams, 2, and his wife is the fascinating Queen Mary, aged 26. They have a little daughter, Rosa, who is two years old.

"What would you do for a queen if your wife should die while you are king?" was asked his majesty.

"Get another wife and she'd be queen" was the answer, and the king smiled at the obvious ridiculousness of the question.

A wedding is scheduled to take place during the convention, King John announced, Tuesday. The son of John Mitchell will be wedded to one of the fair gypsy lassies by custom of the tribe. The priest who will perform the ceremony is living in the camp. He is George Stunkle.

A gypsy wedding must conform to the laws of the United States, and the tribespeople are careful to impress upon callers that while they have a king, they are nevertheless governed in all respects by laws of the country in which they live. The marriageable age of a gypsy maiden is from sixteen to eighteen years. And rarely does a gypsy girl pass eighteen without having been married to some aspiring youth.

Intermarriage is not opposed by the gypsies. Hence the variety of nationalities represented among these nomads. While most of the inhabitants of Camp Chase have striking Indian features, the ease with which native Spanish flows from their tongues almost proves the presence of Spanish, Portuguese or Italian blood, as the case may be. Several of the younger women of the camp have beautiful wavy hair, which, not being coiled or matted, hangs far below the waist line.

The gypsies elect their king. Every four years there is an electoral council called together and a king is elected. Usually, however, the same king is re-elected so that he holds the office for life.

King John has served only half of his four-year term.

But to the observer, King John is only the royal personage in name, for he mingles with his subjects on the same democratic level, participates in their card games, ball games and other sport and is known simply as "John" or John Williams. The queen holds the same relation to women of the camp.

The men and women, however, keep in separate groups through most of the day time except at meal hours. The women mind the children and take care of the tents, while they smoke and chat. Then men, gathered Wandering tribes are called together twice each year by the king and his assistants. Each knows the postoffice address through which the king or some of his aides may be reached. For instance, Ohio gypsies usually keep in touch with Steve Miller and Eli Miller, who have postoffice box 714, St. Marys, O. Steve Miller is an active business man there and makes it his headquarters when not on the road. It is Steve who insists that native Americans are too ready to form a bad opinion of the gypsy, whereas, his people, he says, are harmless nomads willing to do business with the country people on an honest basis.

When an interpreter is necessary, M. J. Frank is called into service. This is rarely necessary, however, for most of the gypsies speak some English. The men are good lodge joiners, and in addition to the Masonic bodies, Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows and Moose, there are represented in Camp Chase the Eagles, Woodmen and Redmen.

The camp has 150 head of horses and two Shetland ponies.

Sports of various kinds will be the program until the camp disbands. Next Sunday a "wild horse" contest will be a feature of the day's events, when gypsies will have some fun with colts in camp.

It is the plan of the convention to meet next winter near Atlanta, Ga., which is the home of King John. In two weeks the camp will be broken up and it is doubtful if any of the different bands will see each other again until the Atlanta meeting is called by the king.

The camp is situated a mile and three-quarters south and east of Warren station, in the direction of Etta. Several Newark and Columbus auto parties have visited the spot during the two days it has been a-swarm with the strange people who make it so interesting.

ried on from car to car and connecting with local and long distance lines at stops. The cars bore the orange and black decorations of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce and were conspicuous for the many novel conveniences in their equipment.

While no formal reception awaited the men in Newark they appeared satisfied, contending that they had been tendered such a big time by Co-shocton Tuesday night that the simple life would be in order the balance of the day.

Coshocton board of trade members appointed for the reception, carried the visitors about their town in motor cars and dined them at the country club in the evening, where an informal reception was carried out.

The object of the tour is to boost Pittsburgh and its products and to familiarize merchants with its advantages as a wholesale center. Each year these trips take in a more extensive itinerary, and it is now the hope of the organization to go to the coast in 1915, accompanied by Governor Tener of Pennsylvania, to dedicate the steel building at the "Frisco" celebration—the Panama exposition.
